DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Honeberg et al (US 6,277,339).

Honeberg et al disclose a reforming reactor having a layered structure, comprising alternating sequence of individual reforming layers filled with reforming catalyst and heating layers adjoining the reforming layer, wherein the volume of the reaction layer is greater than the volume of heating layers, since the heating space catalyst is introduced into the heating layer as wall coating (figure and col. 3, lines 40-45).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Honeberg et al (US '339) as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Heil et al (US 5,753,194).

Honeberg et al disclose the claimed invention above, but fail to teach heating layers are formed by internal spaces between pairs of corrugated profile plates which bears against one another and spacers to support the partitions.

However, Heil et al disclose the heating layers formed by corrugated plates (14) having spacers (10). The advantages of this arrangement are the elimination of a separate heat transfer medium circuit, the possible local adaptation of the specific heat output and of the temperature level to the requirement of the reforming reaction; Because of the clearly lower heat requirement, the catalytic conversion may not be necessary for the second stage and the required energy may be made available directly by cooling the exhaust gas of the first stage (col. 7, lines 1-16).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to provide a corrugated plates with spacers as taught by Heil et al, in Honeberg et al in order to accommodate heating for different stages.
